ALASKA-YUKON-PACIFIC EXPOSITION.

A $10,000,000 World's Fair.

SEATTLE, April 5. The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. which will be held at Scattle, Washington, U.S.A., opening on June 1, and closing on October 15, 1909, will be in relation to the world's development, one of the greatest world's fairs ever held.

The primary purpose of the exposition is to exploit the resources and potentialities of the Alaska and Yukon territories in the United States and the Dominion of Canada, and to make known and foster the vast importance of the trade of the Pacific Ocean and of the countries bordering upon it. Different from former expositions it does not depend upon historical sentiment to arouse enthusiasm and to induce participation. It will not celebrate any particular event; it will be a great inter-The Exposition will have cost about $10,000,000 on opening day. On October 2 last, five months after the incorporation of the exposition company, which was effected on May 7, the people of Seattle were called upon to finance the enterprise by subscribing in one day to its capital stock of 8500,000. The generous and public spirited manner in which they responded by oversubscribing to the extent of $150,000, making the total amount available with which to begin work, $650,000, is now history No other city for any purpose ever equalled such a feat. More than half a million dollars in one day is a large amount of money to be raised in a city of 200,000. inhabitants. An average of more than $3 was subscribed for every man, woman and child in the city.

The State of Washington has appropriated $1,000,000 and the United States Senate has passed a bill providing for $700,000 to be spent for the participation of Alaska, Hawaii, and the Philippines. Many other States have made ample provision for displays and it is expected that at least twenty-five commonwealths will take part.

It will be the aim of the world's fair to exploit Alaska and Yukon by showing to the world by exhibits that these two countries possess many things besides snow, cold and gold. Few persons realize the great possibilities and advantages of these countries. Besides the gold, fish and fur resources, there are many others that are only beginning to be developed, and which offer unusual inducement for the employment of capital and individual effort.

The mineral resources have been only scratched on the surface and the agricultural | GAS ENGINEERING ... Mining. possibilities are only beginning to be realized. Alaska and Yukon will soon bo 2215 able to support millions of people with practically all of the luxuries enjoyed by those living in other parts of Canada and the United States.

The foregoing statements are borne out by the example of Finland. This little country lies wholly north of the 60th parallel, while Alaska reaches six degrees south of this latitude. Finland is less than one-fourth the size of Alaska, and its agricultural area is less than 50,000 square miles, yet in 1898 Finland has a population of more than 2,500,000, whereas Alaska now has only 93,000 inhabitants. Agriculture is the chief pursuit. Only about 300,000 persons dwell in cities. Finland exports large quantities of dairy products, livé stock; flax and considerable grain, and the population has increased 800,000 in the past thirty years, in spite of the large emigration. Yukon is in nearly the same latitude as Alaska and the resources and advantages differ very little from those of the American territory. Alaska and Yukon will be on exhibition in 1909. They have the goods and have a chance to show thom. They cannot make headway with the people they hope to convince by displaying poles DY ORDER OF THE UNDERor gilded cubes representing gold productions. The people want to see the real gold, the real coal, the real timber, the real lies at SINGAPORIS in a Fire Damaged coppor and the real agricultural productions. The results cannot fail to be

The bringing of the shores of the Pacific ocean closer together commercially, will be another important accomplishment of the fair. This will be done by the exhibition of the products and resources of the countries bordering upon the greatest of oceans. There are great possibilities for an increase in the trade of the countries of North and

The products of the Occident will be displayed also, and the merchants and manufacturors of each section may learn the needs of the people ! of their respective markets, and how to secure and hold the business. ## THE LATE MR BEECHAM.

Advertising the Basis of Success.

The late Mr Beecham-whose death we recorded in our issue of yesterday says

the Standard of April 6, early in his career (writes our Liverpool correspondent) learnt to the full the virtues of advertisement. Several years ago the Liverpool district of the Institute of Journalists held a meeting at St. Helens, and an item in the day's programme was a visit to the new buildings of the famous pill works. The party were received by Mr Joseph Beecham, who was very candid about the firm's doings in the advertising line. He said :- "Our turnover is £150,000 a year. Of this the material interest on capital, labour, etc., absorb advertising, leaving us a profit of £25,000, My belief is," he added, "that if we reduced our advertising by one-half we should speedily be making no profit at all. Mr Thomas Beecham, the world famous pill manufacturer, was in many respects ap extraordinary man, who proved his great capacity for business by the remarkable success which he attained. He was a native of Oxfordshire, but in his young days he went to Lancashire, first settling at Wigan, where it is said he was given the recipe for his famous pills, and then golog on to St. Helens, which he subsequently made the headquarters of his business. 1118 commencement was in the humblest fashion possible, for he first offered his pills for sale on a small stall in St. Helens market. Those were trying times. The maket was a large space, open an cold, wintry weather to all the fury of the elements, but Mr Beecham was a man of indomitable perseverance and, lieving that he had a good article todispose of, he was most persistent in all his efforts. The most unassuming of men. he mactically devoted all his energies to the extension of his business, and the fact that he sometimes had to withstand the pranks of practical jokers in the open market place had little effect upon him it his struggles towards prosperity. It is told of him that in those early days he formed a resolution to save something every week no matter how hard pressed he might be and it has been said that this was one of the secrets of his success. However, the business developed greatly, and a small manufactory was opened at the rear of the residence which he occupied in Westfieldin the name of Beecham being known in every quarter of the globe. In 1888 Westfield-street at a cost of £30,000 and here still further developments took place. I wonly five years ago he went to reside in into the hands of his son, Alderman Joseph Beecham, who developed the great advertis ing scheme for which Beechams are famous. Lancashire, taking up his residence at Southport, and frequently visiting St. known by few. He was always very quietly and simply attired, although he was noticeable man with his flowing white locks and keen, alert glance. In every way he indicated the possession of an active mind

A BRAVE SLAMESE.

True Till Death.

The most loyal King's Messenger (T. P.'s Weekly) ever read of was wrecked in the spring of the year 1686 off the Cap of Good Hope. He was the second of the three great Mandarins sent from the King of Siam on an embassy to the King of Portugal, and he contrived to reach the shore while carrying the Royal despatches Balance. aloft on a sabre. This, however, was but the beginning of his trouble and of his probation. The Portuguese captain, whose miscalculation at sea had caused their shipwreck by a no less disastrous miscalculation on land led them one of the most terrible marches on record. During this march of thirty-one days to the Cape of Good All Claims against the Steamer must be Hope (which the captain had assured them was but two days' journey off), the older and weaker members of the party fell out and died, and amongst them the chief of Bills of Lading will be countersigned by the Siamese Ambassadors. When his strength gave out upon the second day, 827 would not hear of his fellow-Mandarins or of his suite staying with him, though nothing that he could say would dissuade an old servant and young lad of fifteen, to whom he had shown great kindness, from remaining behind with him to die. Fo another fortnight the Siamese contrived to keep up with their Portuguese guides, who then, however, gave their eastern friends the slip, leaving them as they supposed to wander till they died in the trackless

The second ambassador, Occum Chamnam when he realised the base desertion of the Portuguese, encouraged his curaged and disheartened countrymen by pointing to the despatches, "You have seen," he said to them, "that on seasor land, in shipwreck or in the desert, drowning or dying of 817 hunger and thirst, my sole thought has been not my own life or suffering, but only and always of our King's despatches. my strength should give out, as I fear it will, I commit them as a sacred charge to the third ambassador; and if he in turn should die, he will entrust them with his last breath to the next in rank, in the hope that someone of us may survive to return this solemn trust to our King. If, however, the last man left of us, into whose keeping they are committed, should strength to the nearest eminence and there bury them, to show to them in death the same respect we had shown to them Optional Goods will be landed here und life," Occum Chamnam, by this speech, so enheartened his deserted and despairing followers with the idea of the sacredness of the charge entrusted to them, that both he and they survived, almost by a miracle, Damaged packages must be left in the to stagger on till they reached the Cape of Hongkong Tides. The tide table given below has been compiled at the Nautical Almanac Office in London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an automatic tide-recording machine in the Water Police Basin at Tsim Sha Tsui during the years 1887-8-9. The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the soundings in the Admiralty Charts which has been found to be 4 feet 3 inches below mean sea level. To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add 3 feet 4 inches, and on the gauge at Lamont Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 feet 6 luches to the height given in the table.
